

My name is Gonzalo Enei. I'm a founder and a product maker.

I co-founded 🗨️ Faces, a presentations platform where every slide is a software artifact. I was the CEO for 3 years. My co-founders run it today. We built several other 🧠 AI-native products, including a 🛠️ Workspace where every tool was usable by humans and agents, and an extension that generated 🖨️ Interfaces using the underlying webpage as a backend. Hi Ventures and Bessemer backed us.

Before that, I was employee No.11 at 📈 Fintual, which makes investing easy for people in LatAm. I was Head of Growth and later VP of Product, as we grew from $10M to $650M in assets under management in four years. This was Sequoia's first investment in Chilean founders, founders who in turn invested in Faces.

I'd like to work for Ode because I love the 0→1 phase of building. Understanding a user problem, prototyping a solution, iterating on it, working with engineers to make it robust. That's something I can do all day.

Most recently I built Claude Interviews, meaning you send Claude to talk to customers, potential hires, leads, etc to find out about a certain topic. You get way more out of it than with forms because conversation is more open-ended and flexible. It's also more fun to answer. I built this solo, in two days.

It's the type of loop I'd like to run at Ode, making software that solves real problems for real clients.
